

WILL WE EVER WALK ON AIR?

Train Of Thought Inspired By A Letter
About "Fruit-A-Tives"

MR. D. McLEAN
Orillia, Ont., Nov. 28th, 1914.
"For over two years, I was troubled with Constipation, Drowsiness, Lack of Appetite and Headaches. I tried several medicines, but got no results and my Headaches became more severe. One day I saw your sign which read 'Fruit-A-Tives' make you feel like walking on air. This appealed to me, so I decided to try a box. In a very short time, I began to feel better, and now I feel fine. Now I have a good appetite, relish everything I eat, and the Headaches are gone entirely. I cannot say too much for 'Fruit-A-Tives', and recommend this pleasant fruit medicine to all my friends."
DAN McLEAN.
"FRUIT-A-TIVES" is daily proving its priceless value in relieving cases of Stomach, Liver and Kidney Troubles—General Weakness, and Skin Diseases. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At all dealers or sent postpaid by Fruit-A-Tives Limited, Ottawa.

PROHIBITION BRINGS PROSPERITY

(Ex-Governor Robert B. Glenn of North Carolina.)

I lay down two propositions and dare any woman or man to deny the same: First, nothing that makes the individual in the community poorer adds to the wealth and power of that community; and will any of you date to say, who robs and loots at the home and the property and the person of a drunkard, that the drinking man adds to the value of any nation. Second, nothing that renders men less able to give to their community and to their God their physical and mental and moral powers, can help that community or glorify that God.
Now, having laid down those two principles, I would ask a few questions in practical business. If strong drink helps business, why don't the railroads advertise for drunken conductors and engineers, instead of saying, as they do, that they will have no man in their employ who takes a drop of liquor? Because they know that drunken engineers and conductors and flagmen bring wrecks and head-on collisions and rear-end collisions and ruin their business. "Whisky helps business!" Why don't you go and get a drunken son of a doctor to administer the medicines to your little son or daughter? Because you know that a drunken doctor would risk the life of that precious son or daughter. "Whisky helps business!" Why don't you take your car and let a drunken chauffeur who is drunk? Because you are afraid he will run you into a ditch or leave you tied up to a telegraph post. "Whisky helps business!" Why don't you farm advertisement for drunken young men to come and drive your team? Why, the whisky people themselves, at a great meeting in Washington City, passed a resolution that they would have no bartender who drank while on duty, and gave as a reason that a drinking man could not attend to business!

state-wide prohibition by 45,352 majority.

But my opponents tell me, "This is another argument that you cannot answer. If you could, we should all be prohibitionists." What is that? "Prohibition won't prohibit. Do you ever hear that?" The brewers and manufacturers say that prohibition won't prohibit. They say that when a state gets prohibition there is more liquor sold than ever was sold before. In these brews and distilleries believe that they would every one of them be out working for prohibition with their might, instead of spending their money to defeat it!

While prohibition doesn't absolutely prohibit, it lessens the traffic. The greatest evidence of that is the letter written by the Internal Revenue collector to the Senate of the United States. They addressed a letter to him and asked him what would be the amount that could reasonably be expected from the tax on beer, whisky and beer and other liquors. He replied, "On account of prohibition in the South last year the amount was $1,292,000. This year it will fall off $7,000,000 from the South, and if Indiana and Ohio and Kentucky and Illinois continue to go for prohibition, I cannot tell what it will do." This shows whether prohibition prohibits or not.

LIQUOR SELLERS BREAKING STONES ON THE ROADS
And yet because the laws against liquor do not absolutely prohibit every sale, you find these men going all over the country, and they have an open town, open country, and open state. I went down to make an address in one of my counties, and the prohibitionists were not there. They said, "The sheriff wasn't doing his duty, and very foolishly he sat in the house and let these fellows come and speak for some time. I turned to him and said, 'Mr. Sheriff, I understand, sir, you aren't enforcing prohibition law. Now, if you are, the courses are open to you, one is to remove your sacred oath and do your duty, and the other is, have your own way, so do what you want to do, and let the public road breaking, where you ought to have these blind fogs.'"

When I got through speaking there wasn't a madder sheriff in North Carolina, and they came to me and said, "He is going to lick you before you leave town." The next morning about breakfast a little boy came and he had his hand extended and he said, "Good morning, Governor, how do you feel this morning?" I never took a man's hand before, and I said, "I feel fine." He said, "You were a little hard on me last night, but hereafter neither you nor any of your fellows will have a word to say about the way I discharge my duty." After I got home I received a letter from him, and he said, "Dear Governor, I got two yesterday. A day or two after that I got another letter. 'I caught two more.' The judge put two of these men to work on the roads for two years. One was worth $15,000. He asked, 'Would you take a $5,000 fine and let me off?' The judge said, 'I will not.' They took the case to the supreme court. The supreme court would not reverse it. They asked me if I would pardon them. I would not. I said, 'You have been destroying the homes and hearts and hopes of the men and women around that town for years, and you have been warned and you have stopped, and for the next two years you have got to wear the stripes and break rock on the roads of North Carolina.' So far as these two men are concerned, as in North Carolina prohibition prohibits.

THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC COSTS VASTLY MORE THAN IT PAYS IN REVENUE.
But there is another reason given by these people, and I am sorry to say that it is the one that seems to capture the voters of our land. They say that if you do away with the liquor tax, then you have got to go down in your pockets and pay the taxes on your personal property that you are getting from this liquor tax." And on account of this miserable little tax, men in this audience tonight have given their influence for whisky. Now, my friends, let me tell you the fact that I am sure you will not begin to compensate us for what we are paying out every day on account of the liquor tax. But on one side the cost of crime, the cost of poverty and sickness, and the cost of the ten times greater tax on the credit side in any state in this union.

I will give you only a few figures, but these are like all the rest: In Ohio, before it became a local option state, the liquor revenue was $4,100,000 a year. How much did Ohio spend on account of the liquor for added crime, for poverty and insanity, for the cost of sickness and death? Seven million two hundred thousand dollars; or, in other words, the traffic cost Ohio $3,000,000 more and gave it $1,100,000 in revenue. Is that making money?

In Washington, our national capital, the revenue from license last year was $413,000, and the added amount of crime and insanity and poverty, to say nothing of sickness and death, was $1,275,511—over three times more than the license revenue. Is that making money?

In Missouri 85 per cent. of all crime comes from the liquor traffic; in Washington City 45 per cent. of all crime comes from the liquor traffic; in Massachusetts 84 per cent. of crime from liquor, 90 per cent. of pauperism, and 90 per cent. of insanity; in Maine, at the state of Maine, $140.14 per capita in the banks for every man, woman, boy and girl in the state of Maine. Look at Pennsylvania; look at Illinois; rich, powerful states, and yet the sum per capita in the banks of Illinois is $134.43, and in Pennsylvania $187.77. Because Maine has hoarded up for humanity and for God, and Pennsylvania, Illinois and Kentucky and other license states are spending for evil and crime and shame.

Listen again! Last year there were 9,350 mardens in the United States of America—only three in Maine. Last year, 1908, Governor Hoeh of Kansas said that the people of Kansas had $160,000,000 in their pockets, and mardens were absolutely an unknown quantity.

The noblest work that ever has been done in the world the Woman's Christian Temperance Union is doing today. It stands for the uplifting of humanity; it stands for the glorifying of God; it will blot out this evil. When I see their power, when I see the glory elected by them, I pray, I pray, that those men of our may soon learn that there is ability, that there is power, in the women, and that they may be given the same right to the poll that the men of our nation have. They have called women idiots; they have called them fools; they have said that they were not capable of bearing burdens, and, thank God, the boys are shouting on the highways, "Strong Drink Must Go," and the girls are going forward and boys shall be saved from strong drink, and when the record is written on High, as it will be written on High, and when God shall give the praise and the glory and the honor to whom honor is due, that honor, that praise, that glory will first be given to the women of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, who have stood for God and the right.

135,000 Men Are Under Arms In Canadian Forces
INTENDED TO BRING TOTAL AT ONCE UP TO 157,000
Recruiting Shows No Signs of Abating
RESPONSE GOOD IN TORONTO, MONTREAL AND THROUGH WEST

Ottawa, Ont., June 17.—It is estimated that there are fully 135,000 men already recruited for service with the Canadian forces. These include the men who have been at the front, the troops in England, and those now being organized in the Dominion. It is intended to increase the total to about 157,000 men, with no trouble whatever being experienced in raising the recruits for the 35 new regiments recently authorized.

"Enlistment is simply wonderful," is the statement of the department here. So far the new recruits have not been allotted to their respective regiments. In towns and villages recruiting officers are gathering their men in satisfactory numbers, and the full extent of the recruiting will not be known until these men are brought into their various units, but it is believed here that almost enough have been recruited already to make up the extra regiments.

The response has been particularly good in the west, where the men already contributed nearly 10,000 to its fighting forces. It is also very satisfactory in Montreal, while in the east there is an apparent abatement in the rush to the colors. It is understood that the thirteen regiments of mounted rifles, which have given their willingness to go as infantry, are over and above the 35 regiments mentioned.

It is understood that the first contingent, after losses approximating 9,000 men, has been consolidated and again brought up to full strength by reinforcements from the 17th, the 30th, the 11th, the 12th, the 23rd, and other regiments. The second contingent is believed to be still in England. To keep two full divisions in the field with lines of communications, etc., it is necessary to recruit 157,000 men. 73,000 men have already gone forward from Canada.

state-wide prohibition by 45,352 majority.

If you were to leave it to the people of my state tomorrow as to how they would vote, they would cut out the saloon by 150,000 majority, for they have tasted all the sweets of temperance and we will never go back to the idols of drunkenness and sin.

But my opponents tell me, "This is another argument that you cannot answer. If you could, we should all be prohibitionists." What is that? "Prohibition won't prohibit. Do you ever hear that?" The Pacifists

When patriot voices warned us, long ago,
That Britain's testing-time was drawing near,
You had no eyes to mark the crouching foe—
No answer but a jeer.

Year in, year out, the deadly menace grew,
From strength to strength moved on the ruthless plan,
You babble of the reign of peace in view.
The brotherhood of man!

Our Nestor-ho flung aside repose
To rouse his country to her martial deed;
You mocked the aid "alarmist" who arose
To shame their fatuous creed.

Those who were set to keep our fleet
And our army, and our navy,
You only lived to thwart and dis-
avow;
Your vile crusade chimed with the
Howlers of the peace man;
Ah! You are silent now!

Has knowledge brought to you a better mind,
Or is your dumbness fear, without regret?
How are we sure that you, O fools
and blind,
Have learned your lesson yet?
ALFRED BERLYN.

June Rod and Gun

"The Glittering Lure" is the title given by Bonnycastle Lake to a story of before-the-season fishing in the opening pages of June Rod and Gun, which is published at Woodstock, Ont., by W. J. Taylor, Limited. "Honest Weight" is an amusing tale of two rival fishermen related by one of the French-Canadian guides who accompanied them on their outing after "de boge wan." "Three Swedes there were" is also a humorous story relating the experiences of a "vulgar, rambling trio," showing how every man turns to those to whom a purpose.

"Spert" is all around the Rocky Mountains, "Carefree Days in Newfoundland," etc., and the regular departments, which latter are full of interest to the fisherman and make up a very interesting early summer issue.

Italian Fleet Sails With Sealed Orders

Rome, June 17.—The Italian fleet sailed under sealed orders late Tuesday night from the Taranto at the southeast end of Italy. Before the fleet steamed into the Adriatic a remarkable religious service was held in the ancient cathedral of St. Cathalo. The archbishop pronounced a patriotic allocution and called for a great naval victory for the King. All afternoon great crowds streamed into the cathedral. Toward evening an immense crowd gathered along the harbor front to watch the departure of the ships.

BORDEN QUICKLY
 NAILS UNTRUTH.

A few days ago Hon. Rudolph Borden made the statement that "it was by the vote of the government, general that the Hon. Mr. Rogers plan, last April, to have a general election, was not carried out."

Owing to the fact that Mr. Lemieux was postmaster-general in Sir Wilfrid Laurier's cabinet, and prominent in the councils of the Liberal party, the statement was taken more notice of, believed and published under big headlines in every Liberal paper in Canada.

Sir Robert Borden at once emphatically stated Mr. Lemieux's assertion was an unqualified falsehood.

It is hard enough for Sir Robert Borden and his hard-worked colleagues to steer the ship of state with honor to our fair Dominion and the Empire at large, during these perilous times, without having to correct lying and malicious statements designed to injure the Government.

And the great mass of moderate and loyal citizens who read these disloyal attempts of the leaders of the Liberal party to hamper the government in its brave efforts to promote the welfare of Canada are storing these things up in their hearts, and will some day express their disapproval in no uncertain manner.

THE GRAND OLD BRITISH FLEET

We are prone to find fault with the British fleet for its apparent inaction, and we hear from time to time impatient remarks that our ships are not exerting themselves as they should. But we must not forget our navy has done all it set out to do, namely, control the seas, and not one single naval expert has found fault with the splendid work accomplished by our battle ships.

What sea control means to the Allies is described in the following words: "They receive munitions, food and supplies from all quarters of the globe; their credit remains sustained, their armies continue to be transported over seas; whereas the ports of their enemies remain closed, their foreign commerce is in abeyance, their fleets are confined to their own ports, and they are thrown almost entirely upon their own resources for munitions, food and supplies of every kind for both their military forces and their civil population." Admiral Fletcher says that the British navy has accomplished all it set out to do. As long as the German fleet remains bottled up it is as useless to Germany as though it were at the bottom of the ocean. These experts and others interviewed at Washington agree that, while submarines, within their limitations, are a highly efficient weapon of warfare, they cannot unaided maintain warfare against a modern fleet. The submarine is a weapon of opportunity, says Admiral Fletcher, and for attacking under favorable conditions is practically invincible, but it cannot maintain a blockade, nor can it break one. It cannot help the capital ships to come into the open. It cannot transport troops, take prizes, or, indeed, do any of the work that a successful navy must accomplish. The British battle fleet is in the open, guarding the British Isles and keeping open the paths of the seas of all the world but the Baltic Sea. Yet it is as safe from attack from the German submarines as though the German fleet, hidden behind miles of mounds and mined waters, is from attack by British submarines.

ARE WOODEN PAVEMENTS GOOD PAVEMENTS?

The linking up of science and industry was what Hon. W. J. Roche, Minister of the Interior, had in view in establishing a Forest Products Laboratory of Canada under the Dominion Forestry Branch. The plan is that expert chemists and technical men devote their whole time to discovering new uses for Canadian woods and better methods for applying woods to their old uses, so that our citizens may secure the greatest efficiency and profit in handling the great natural resource. One of the fruits of this plan is the bulletin just issued by the Forestry Branch on "Treated Wood Block Paving." The question of wooden paving is a most important one to Canada which has such great supplies of this material. The bulletin tells of the results obtained in Europe, United States and Canadian municipalities in using wood for paving, and gives the methods by which the best results have been obtained. Any resident of Canada interested may have a copy of this bulletin free by writing to the Director of Forestry, Department of the Interior, Ottawa.

UNWISE CRITICISM.

From the Montreal "Mail."

The man who criticises the Government unjustly in time of war offends the patriotic sentiment of the nation. Canada's Government at the present time is criticised unjustly, and the nation is weakened as a consequence.

By no process of reasoning can it be concluded that one-half of the criticism of the Government of Canada that is appearing in a section of the press at the present time is fair or healthy. It is intended to discredit the Government, to make it appear that the country is badly served by the men in office.

No one can argue that the nation is served by this criticism. It is as wild, hysterical and unfair as was the assault on the Canadian boat and shoe industry not long ago, which went up in smoke in due time on the floor of Parliament, where statements cannot be made unless they are supported by evidence.

It is a solemn fact that one-half of the press of Canada has for some months adopted an attitude of railing at the Government which could not be made more intense if general election were in progress. Strange to say, coupled with this criticism has been a protest against the holding of a general election. The country has seen the critics as busy at disturbing tactics as they could be in the event of a general election, while the same critics cried out against action such as they were busily engaged in performing!

In time of war, the public does not regard the Government of the country in such a way as to permit of harsh criticism such as has been forthcoming from many sources of late. Critics will not attack the Government in war time with impunity when their criticism has no basis in fact. The party which lends its endorsement to such a policy is not gaining any ground.

LAKE ROUTE TO EASTERN CANADA.

On June 19th the Grand Trunk Pacific Lake Route between Western and Eastern Canada will be opened for the summer season. This route has been one of the most popular features of Grand Trunk Pacific service and deservedly so. Trains with the finest equipment run over smooth riding track and operate at convenient hours to give close connection with the finest steamships in the lake service. The steamship "Noronic," placed in service last year for the first time, is unquestionably the largest, finest and safest passenger steamship on the upper lakes.

The first train eastbound will leave Winnipeg, 10.30 p.m., Saturday, June 19th, to connect with S.S. "Hamonic" sailing from Port William, Sunday, June 20th. Westbound a day train will be operated this year, leaving Port William on arrival of Northern Navigation steamships. First train will leave Port William at 7.30 a.m., C.T., June 21st, with passengers from S.S. "Noronic" arriving Winnipeg 10.30 p.m. same evening.

Persons planning their summer vacation trips to Eastern Canada of the New England States will find comfort and pleasure to their holidays by travelling this route. In addition to the above they have the privilege of returning home via diverse routes.

MR. BRYAN A FAILURE.

New York Herald: With his passing beyond the horizon of official life the time is opportune to tell some truths about Mr. Bryan which could not be told in a spirit of partisanship so long as he was titular head of the department of state and this department was charged with the grave responsibilities involved in an international crisis.

Mr. Bryan has been a rank failure as secretary of state. That he has shown himself mentally incapacitated to grasp the great problems with which his department had to deal requires no other demonstration than is furnished by the action of the president in taking these matters into his own hands. That he is temperamentally unfit for administrative office has been apparent from the beginning of his service. If there ever was a time when the state department was so poorly equipped and so inefficiently administered as under Mr. Bryan it was in the dim and distant past to which the memory of man runneth not.

Mr. Bryan's friends—and it is to his credit as a man that he has many—have been grievously disappointed at his failure to measure up to the office into which an unkindly fate and his own ambition injected him. They cannot complain if the several million voters who upon three separate occasions prevented Mr. Bryan from becoming president see in his failure a striking endorsement of the wisdom of their decision at the polls.

The New York World puts it this way: "German submarines are killing American citizens and destroying American ships. The German government refuses to abandon or to modify this lawless method of warfare. Mr. Bryan, thereupon, calmly suggests that we refer the issue to an international commission, to report in a year. German submarines, in the meantime, will continue to kill American citizens and sink American ships. Only at the end of twelve months will the United States be free to take measures to protect the lives of such of its citizens as survive and to safeguard such of its ships as have managed to escape the vigilance of the German submarine commanders."

There is a movement on foot tending towards the establishment of a large pork packing concern and stock yards in Red Deer. It is early in the day to make further comment on the enterprise, except to say that the proposition looks good, that Red Deer is the centre of the greatest pork raising district in the west and the logical position for such an enterprise.

Cattle and hog prices are on the decline, although the packing plant have received orders for pork and beef amounting to millions of dollars, which all goes to show that a great combine exists to keep down prices in favor of the packers and against the farmer.

ELECTIONS IN MANITOBA AT END OF JULY.

Winnipeg, June 18.—It was announced, last night, by a local government authority, that the Manitoba general elections will be held in the week beginning July 26. Final counts of revision of the voters' list will be held July 9 and 10. The Pass, Nelson and Grand Rapids elections will be deferred. The last election was held July 10, last year.

A Letter From Geo. McMorris

(Stettin Independent) May 25th, 1915.

Dear Drimann: There is so much that I might write about of interest at the present time, that I am at a loss to know what would be of most interest to friends in Gadsby, but think perhaps a few explanations about the organization of our forces in France and Belgium might help to a clear understanding of Sir J. French's tactics.

Our British forces in France are split into two armies. The first army, under Sir Douglas Haig, occupies the right flank of the British line in the vicinity of La Bassée. The second army occupies the left flank in the vicinity of Ypres and is commanded by Sir N. Smith Dorrien. Each army is made up of two or more army corps consisting of two divisions each. A division has a fighting strength of about 12,000 rifles, besides artillery, machine guns, transport, medical corps, etc. The division is subdivided into brigades, etc.

Generally speaking, the work of the first army since March has been offensive and that of the second army has been defensive, except in the operation around Hill 60, where on a frontage of less than 250 yards over 3,000 of the best soldiers of our armies fell in an effort to wrest this strategic point from the enemy.

On account of the strong and intricate system of entrenchments built by both sides, infantry attacks in the old way are simply impossible. There are, however, various methods of storming the trenches in offensive operations.

The British method at Neuve Chapelle is the most common. That is, large numbers of guns are massed within range of the front to be attacked. Then at the appointed time a destructive bombardment is opened and continued until the enemy's defences are destroyed. The line is then rushed and the operation is easy hard as a walk as the artillery has done its work.

Another way is by mining operations. This has been done at Hill 60. This Hill had previously been 5 times taken by French and 5 times retaken by the Germans. When we took over that part of the line we at once began mining operations. The moleculous supplied skilled miners who tunneled out from our lines until they reached the hill. They then ran the tunnel up under the German trench and mined it with gun cotton. Seven such mines were laid without detection and exploded at 7 p.m. one evening. The whole side was blown off and our men rushed up in the confusion and took possession of what was left, making prisoners of the few who had not been killed.

The enemy of course immediately sent up their supports and the fighting went on with varying success. The casualties were very great, company after company being wiped out.

A third way of attack is by sapping. A sap is a deep ditch dug out towards the enemy's trench. You sap as close to him as possible. Then they throw bombs and grenades from the saps into his trench until it is abandoned by him. The Germans are very successful in this mode of attack and have bombed what was left of us out of more than one trench.

In fighting around Ypres this summer the Germans have made use of a new form of attack, viz., gas, by which they have gained some ground in that vicinity.

I believe our men are in a position at present to meet even poison gas, and no doubt we shall presently make use of the same weapon in our offensive work.

The Battle of Ypres, April 22 to 28 (I left Ypres on the 28th) has never been surpassed in horror by the work of man. An earthquake or volcanic eruption alone could equal it. Engines of havoc, unknown before, and horrible as new javelins that fly.

Ever reached with smoky flames through the dark sky. And red hot globes that opening as they mount. Discharged as from a kindling naptha font. Showers of consuming fire over all below.

These lines descriptive of another battle only faintly describe the terrors of those days around Ypres, and yet men went through it all in a dream, and ate and slept at times; slept in ditches and holes through complete exhaustion, but never gave a foot of ground until all dispositions had been made and the order came to retreat.

Our regiment was practically non-existent after it was over.

RANCHER GETS TWO YEARS IN PEN.

Calgary, Alta., June 14.—Levi W. A. Thomson, charged with attempting to murder Stafford Wilson at his homestead near Oyen, was found guilty by the jury Saturday and sentenced by Justice Simons to two years in the penitentiary. Wilson stated that Thomson tried to hit him with a clawhammer, then shot him twice with a revolver, and then shot at him with a rifle, declaring that he would kill Wilson. Wilson claimed that the reason Thomson did this was because he blamed Wilson for telling the neighbors that he dogged the horses of certain ranchers.

United States Will Get $1,500,000,000 For War Munitions

New York, June 17.—According to estimates, the United States will receive one and a half billion in 1915 from the sale of war munitions to the warring nations. The benefits to be derived by the United States from purchases by the allies can be summarized as follows: Great Britain, $500,000,000; Russia, $500,000,000; France, $400,000,000; Italy, $100,000,000. Total, $1,500,000,000.

With a total as large as this the United States government could pay off its entire interest bearing debt and there would still remain a balance of more than $500,000,000.

The Devil and Kaiser Bill

The devil was sad, the devil was sad;
 As sad as the devil could be.
 The plain truth to tell there was not in hell
 A soul just as angry as he.
 He heard some bad news, he shook in his shoes,
 As he contemplated his fate.
 His chiefs gathered round, and on them he frowned,
 And told them the tale of his fate.

"There's a fellow," said he, "who's a rival to me,
 A chap they call Emperor Bill.
 If everything's true between me and you,
 I'm certainly due for a spill.
 He's king of them all, devils great.
 Devils small;
 Alongside of him I'm a saint.
 I know I am mad—though thought makes me sad.
 I'm not in his class—no I ain't."

When he reaches here I'd very much
 To put him down there with the mob.
 I know mighty well he'd Prussianize hell.
 And then I'd be out of a job.
 And he cried like a kid, the devil he did,
 And said I'm sure in a fix.
 He wouldn't or poor, hell would be hell sure,
 When Charon rows him over the Styx."

The devil he sighed, the devil he cried.
 As he thought of this rival of his.
 He cried and he sighed till he pretty near died.
 At the thought of losing his viz.
 Mr. Bess, or Miss, the moral is this:
 When you hear the Kaiser he's dead,
 Don't right then and there make a thanksgiving prayer,
 Just pray for the devil instead.

Estimate Losses of Teutonic Allies at 6,726,000 Men

Paris, June 17.—The military expert of the Matin estimates the total casualties and losses in prisoners of the Teutonic allies at 6,726,000 men. The French general staff computes the German losses alone at 3,200,000 up to March 21.

According to the Matin's war expert the German losses in killed, wounded and prisoners are 4,200,000 out of 8,600,000 men called to the colors, and Austria losses are 2,526,000 out of 4,500,000 men called to the colors.

PREMIER DECLARES STATEMENT OF LEMIEUX AN UNQUALIFIED FALSEHOOD.

Ottawa, June 16.—Prompt and emphatic denial of the statement made by Hon. Rudolph Lemieux, that "it was by the vote of the government, general that the Hon. Mr. Rogers plan, last April, to have a general election, was not carried out," was made by Sir Robert Borden, today. The statement was made by the ex-postmaster-general at a political meeting Sunday at Rigaud, Que. The premier said: "I have nothing whatever to say except that Mr. Lemieux's assertion is an unqualified falsehood."

Says Germany Is Beaten

Princes George, B.C., June 17.—Waldemar Heinrich, formerly a soap manufacturer of Copenhagen, Denmark, who is here, having left the Danish capital three weeks ago, states that the people of his country have no doubt whatever that Germany is beaten and they expect it to collapse in a comparatively short time because of the present scarcity of food and the imminent shortage of ammunition. That country is shipping half a million dollars' worth of butter alone to Britain every week he states.

Lake Superior

Branch Leased

Rental of Half Million a Year; Three Trains Each Week.

Ottawa, June 12--It was learned today that an agreement has been completed between the Government and the G.T.P. whereby the Lake Superior branch passes into the hands of the Government. The road is not to be purchased but leased for a long term.

The annual rental, it is understood, will be $500,000 per year. The bond indebtedness of the line $70,000 per mile and the annual rental will be sufficient to cover this.

The regular operation of the transcontinental passenger train freight will start at the end of the month. It will be three times per week each way.

Germans Hope To Retain Belgium After End Of War

Have Already Taken $1,250,000,000 in Property Out of the Country.

London, June 16--A "neutral observer" who has been visiting Germany and has written a series of articles for The Times, in one of his articles yesterday declares that it is the almost universal belief of German people that Belgium will remain German and that the Belgian Congo will become a German possession.

The writer says that since the occupation of Belgium by the Germans it is estimated that Germany has taken $1,250,000,000 worth of property of all kinds, including raw materials and manufactured products, as well as immunities out of Belgium.

"Revolvers made in Belgium," the writer continues, "are now a part of the regular German equipment. The bayonets and swords now used in the German armies are almost exclusively of Belgian manufacture, while it is intended, when the need arises, to take the overhead wiring in Belgium to make good the copper shortage in Germany."

THE TRUE SITUATION.

The war loan last year amounted to fifty million dollars.

The war loan this year amounts to one hundred million dollars.

The interest on these borrowings will amount to six millions and a half, purely and simply a war expenditure.

That is one item.

The Government has put into force a system of pensions for Canadian soldiers. The most that Canada can do for those heroes who stemmed the German tide at Langemark and have held the Huns in check since then, is none too much.

The pension outlay is estimated at from four to five millions. If that isn't a war expenditure, perhaps someone will tell us what it is, and what a war expenditure is.

The war loan interest of six and a half millions and the pension list of four to five millions, make a total of ten and a half to eleven and a half millions. The special war revenue will be sufficient to cover that amount.

Events are proving the shallow stupidity of the position taken by the Opposition under Laurier last session.

CASUALTY LIST OF CANADIANS OVER 9,000 NOW

And of That Number 1,839 Are In The Hands of The Enemy

Ottawa, June 18--The casualty lists received at the militia department since yesterday are confined almost exclusively to the 16th battalion of Toronto, of whom no less than 208 are reported to be missing. Those men have been apparently missing since the battle of St. Julien, at the end of April, and are only now being reported. It was said after the battle that 2,000 Canadians were missing. Up to the present time 1,839 of those who are in the hands of the enemy have been reported. The killed now total 1,430, while the wounded number 5,803. The total casualties number 9,072.

The Liberal Argument

THAT TAXES ARE NOT FOR WAR

A Shallow and Stupid Position

One of the grounds taken by the Laurier Opposition in moving a vote of want of confidence in the Government last session, and attempting to hamper the war measures of the country, was that the special war revenue for which provision was then being made, was not intended for war purposes. They said it was intended to make up for reckless and wasteful expenditures apart from the war. They said that this was because the Government was borrowing one hundred millions for war expenditures. Their argument was that because the Government resorted to special taxation, aside from the hundred million war loan, therefore the special taxation was not for war purposes.

CLEAR AS MUD.

Think it over. The more you think about it the less you will be able to understand it. Nobody has ever yet been able to understand the Liberal argument on any basis of logical reasoning. However, that was the proposition and it was quite as good as some others put forward by the same men.

Now it so happens that the war expenditures since then than those provided for in the war loans of this year and last year, will take just about all the money raised from this special taxation, on two items alone. Nobody will say that interest on a war loan is not a war outlay. If it is not, then of course there isn't any war outlay; you are conducting the war on borrowed money and the cost of this money is not a war expenditure. It's a pretty hard notion to swallow, even by the most willing Brit.

Fatal Ending to a Squabble With a Drunk

Coronation, Alta., June 15--At midday, today, Joe Todd, a farmer, living one mile north of Montfort, when drunk entered the harness shop of the local justice of the peace, A. C. Beamer. Beamer ordered him out, but he refused to go. Beamer pushed him out. In the scuffle on the sidewalk Todd is supposed to have pushed or struck Beamer, or Beamer to have missed his hold on Todd and fallen heavily against a hitching post, breaking his neck. He died in twenty minutes. Todd is under arrest by the Northwest Mounted Police. The affair was witnessed by two or three of the town people, more especially by Mr. Sloan, a local general merchant, who was trying to separate them when the fatality happened.

Warneford Loses His Life When His Aero-plane Falls

Brilliant Aviator had American Writer Are Both Killed in France.

Paris, June 17.—Lieut. A. J. Warneford, who gained fame recently by blowing to pieces a Zeppelin over Belgium, was killed today by fall of an aeroplane at Bou. France. Lieut. Warneford was piloting the machine which had as a passenger Henry Beach Needham, the American writer, who also was killed.

Lieut. Warneford and Needham fell from a height of 500 feet. The lieutenant had been spending a few days in Paris where he came after his Zeppelin exploit to receive his decoration of honor. According to a report received from the French, the accident happened from an explosion in mid-air which caused Lieut. Warneford to lose control, the machine crashing to earth.

Needham's body was taken to the English hospital in Trion Palace, Versailles. He had been in Europe about four months, acting as correspondent of magazines and a New York newspaper. He had received permission from the military authorities to make a flight in order to get material for a story. His wife, who also is a writer, accompanied him during the early part of his trip abroad. Mrs. Needham sailed for America some days ago.

To Jacob Staudinger:

PRACTICAL HINTS

It will aid the young housekeeper to know just what to use to make crust for one pie. Here is a reliable recipe:

Take one generous half pint of pastry flour, one generous tablespoonful of shortening, half a teaspoonful of salt, half a teaspoonful of baking powder. Sift the dry ingredients, rub in the shortening, moisten with cold water only sufficiently to roll out; wet pie crust is never crisp; a quarter of a cupful of water should be ample. Roll thin.

Pie crust should be rolled in one direction—away from you on the top; it draws the flour and spoils it. A cloth moistened with alcohol is effective in cleaning plate tops.

Place tiny cotton flannel disks or soft doilies between your decorated plates when not in use as a protection. It is easy to open glass fruit jars without the aid of a knife if a hot stove plate is put on top and allowed to remain for three minutes; this will allow the lid to be easily unscrewed and not injured.

For a Flower Girl

Dainty frock of fine white organdie with sash, suitable for wedding or party.

Rolled Steak

Take a good-sized rump steak, a little more than an inch thick, 1 pound pork sausages, 2 yolks of eggs. Spread the steak out and beat it a little with a roller. Remove skins from the sausages and mix them with the egg yolks. Spread over the beefsteak, roll up and tie. Cover with a greased paper and put in a pan with some dripping. Roast in the oven, beating well, for about an hour and a half. Serve on a hot dish with brown gravy or tomato sauce around.

Cottage Cheese

To skim milk at a temperature of about 75 degrees Fahrenheit, add enough buttermilk to coagulate it, say, 20 per cent. Next set the vessel in hot water and heat to 90 or 95 degrees Fahrenheit. When the curd comes, cut fine and heat to 104 to 107 degrees Fahrenheit. Let stand 30 minutes, then dip the curd into a straining cloth and drain. Salt to taste, and add 8 ounces thick cream to 10 pounds cheese.

A Gentle Shower Bath

After washing the hair, a good way to thoroughly rinse it is to fill a common tin flower sprinkling can with water and suspend on a nail or hook above the head over the bathtub. The water comes with just force enough to rinse and the sprinkler can be filled as often as necessary.

To Lift Pans From Oven

An ordinary five-cent fire shovel, with its edge flattened out, is a splendid device for lifting pans, etc., to and from the oven. This will obviate the necessity of handling them and will prevent many burns.

To Wash Milk Bottles

A handy little dish washer for the milk bottle, etc., too narrow for the hand and cloth, is made from the wire handle of a grape basket, which is straightened out, with the hook left on one end.

Care of Poultry

A fowl requires grain food, vegetable food, meat food, and grit. These foods should be clean and wholesome, and furthermore, a portion of them should be given in some form so as to induce the birds to take exercise, so that the fowls will be healthy. Fowls should be well supplied with water or milk to drink. Make the water as clean as possible, not giving it regularly. The supply should be clean and constant. Dirty water, dirty or stinky drinking dishes, etc., will do more toward making a flock unhealthy and diseased than any other cause. Most attendants are inclined to forget to clean the drinking vessels, and to keep them well filled at all times.

For the Children

Richest Boys In the World.

Marshall and Henry Field, grandsons of the late Marshall Field of Chicago, are probably the richest boys in the world. They are the chief heirs to the $100,000,000 left by the great Chicago merchant. Still they are not happy. Since last fall they have been at Eton college, England, but they have become homesick and threaten to run away to sea or something else dreadful unless allowed to return to America. So they will be allowed to spend their vacation in the land of the free. They like the ways of American boys much better than those of the Eton lads, although their companions are mostly sons of titled fathers. The eldest of the two boys, Marshall Field III, is destined to head the great mercantile enterprise founded by his namesake and grandfather and is being educated with that future in view.

Putnam's Wolf Den

Everybody in the country is familiar with the story of how Israel Putnam in his youthful days crawled into a den and killed a fierce wolf that had been ravaging the neighboring sheepfolds 150 years ago.

All admirers of the deed and its heroic hero will be glad to know that the den and its surroundings are to be converted into a public park. The historic den is among high hills, in a rugged country, some miles from the village of Putnam, Vt., and is situated at the base of the mountains.

The cavern, with the woodland all about it, is on the big farm of Phoebe and Clara of Putnam, and it remains exactly as it was a century and a half ago, except that hundreds of visitors there, who come from all parts of the Union, have chiseled their names in the rough rocks about its mouth. The entrance to the cavern is about two feet in diameter. The passage-way slants downward at first for about fifteen feet, then extends horizontally ten feet further, ascends an easy slope and then descends to a level. The ancient home of the wolf—the ceiling of which is less than four feet high.

A Good Puzzle

Here is a puzzle which you may try to see what you can do with: Tie a string about a yard long to a door key and take the string in the right hand. Hold it so the key will clear the floor four or five inches. If you hold the string steady enough it will begin to swing back and forth in a straight line. Let another person take your left hand in his right and the motion of the key will change from the pendulum like swing to a circular swing. If a third person will place his hand on the shoulder of the second person the key will stop. Just try it, the above and then solve the puzzle.

Gorilla—A Game

A kind of tag in which the pursuer is called the gorilla. The other players bow and make any kind of noise, but the gorilla must keep perfectly quiet. As soon as he touches any player he begins to howl, while the one touched becomes gorilla and steps forward. The players must keep their hands by their sides and can then avoid him.

A Riddle

A man and a goose once went up to a balloon together. The balloon burst, and they landed on a church steeple. How could the man get "down"?

Answer—Pluck the goose.

Childhood's Castles in the Air

Gently, no public; there's room there for all. All three, without grumbling. One in front, two behind—well you know. And mamma to hold you from tumbling. Back, rock, old rocking chair! You'll last us a long time with care. And still without bailing.

Of us four any one From rocking and talking, This is what we call fun.

Shall we call this a bout out at sea, Or four sailors rowing? Can you dance it well as we? As for me, I feel the salt wind blowing. Up and down, like a cork, On the top of a wave we float.

Dance, I say, and a round Glimmer. Our boat will pump! The fairy people come running To meet us down on the sand, We'll be the very best. We've long wished for, held in his hand. Hold up again, one more round. Let's pull all together. To the always low weather. We'll dance us fair time.

THE TURKS SUFFER LOSSES.

Cairo, June 17.—A German officer and 25 Turks were killed and another German officer was captured in attacks on the Anglo-French positions in the Dardanelles Tuesday night. An official statement of the British forces said that the enemy attempted to regain trenches occupied by British troops last Saturday. The Anglo-French troops were first forced back thirty yards, but at daybreak swept the Turkish positions with machine guns, driving the Turks out.

AFRAID OF MOONLIGHT.

The Reason, Porto Ricans Carry Umbrellas at Night.

"The majority of Porto Ricans have insisted in their own country that a superstitious dread of the full moon's rays," said a business man who has just returned from that country.

"It is a curious sight to the American visitor to note men and women going along the streets and highways of the island with umbrellas raised over their heads in the least shadow of the night, and the more brilliantly the moon is shining the greater will be the number of people, who are thus protecting themselves from her beams. Out in the sequestered rural districts a gay mounted cavalier will be met at midnight, his bridle rein in one hand and an upraised umbrella in the other. It looks weird and also ridiculous, but the natives do it for a peculiar reason. They are possessed of the conviction that Luna's full light striking upon mortals is almost sure to make them mentally unsteady—that is to say, insane—and that is why they interpose a shield between them and her dazzling brightness.

"To sleep when the moon should shine full upon one is, in the view of a Porto Rican, to tempt fate, and it would be a daring one who could be hired to do it for any consideration."

STRENUOUS LIVING.

A Long Day in the Life of an English Lady in 1791.

As for industriousness, which is held to blame for the wrecking of our nervous system, it was not unknown to our forefathers. Mrs. Ismail writes us that in her youth pleasure loving people would leave Brussels early in the morning, travel all day to hear the opera and arrive at night home. "That," she observes—as well she may—"was considered being 'tired' of the opera."

A paragraph in one of Horace Walpole's letters gives us the record of a day and a night in the life of an English lady—between hours of "society" which would put New York to the blush. "I heard the Duchess of Gordon's journal of last Monday," he writes to Mrs. Berry in the spring of 1791. "She first went to hear Handel's music in the abbey, then dined over the benches and went to Handel's play, then to Lady Ligon's assembly, after that to Blandish and returned to Mrs. Herbert's table; gave a small concert in the evening of that morning, into which she must have got a good way, and set out for Scotland the next day. Hercules could not have accomplished a quarter of her labors in the same space of time."

A Pretty Poor Portrait.

A Chiselman of very high rank had his portrait painted, and when it was finished the painter requested him to send himself in the evening of that morning, into which she must have got a good way, and set out for Scotland the next day. Hercules could not have accomplished a quarter of her labors in the same space of time."

"Do you think this portrait like?" "The hat is extremely like," replied the critic.

The subject of the portrait asked a similar question of a second stranger, who answered that the clothes seemed to be exactly reproduced. He went about to interrogate a third when the painter stopped him and said impatiently: "The resemblance of the hat and clothes is of no importance. Ask this gentleman what he thinks of the face."

On being asked this question the stranger hesitated a very long time, but at last he replied:

"The beard and hair are first rate."

London as It Was.

Haydn's "Dictionary of Dates" makes the statement that the old name of the city of London was written Lunden or Lijon, meaning the city on the lake. An old tradition gives us to understand that London was founded by Brutus, a descendant of Aeneas, son of the Trojan hero, who arrived in the time of King Lud, who surrounded the town with walls and named it Caer-Lud, or Lud's Town. This name was probably changed to London on the story, if for no other reason because it is an easy matter to detect a similarity between the expenses of Lud's Town and London. It is claimed by some writers that there was a city on the same spot 1,107 years B. C. and it is known that the Romans founded a city there called Londinium A. D. 43.

Real Modesty.

"An actor should be modest, and most actors are," said a prominent one at a luncheon in Pittsburgh. "But I know a young actor who at the beginning of his career carried modesty almost too far."

"This young man inserted in each part, such as dead body or outside should be preferred."

Preferences.

"I think I'll spend my vacation on the 'box,' and the first free. 'I'm fond of golf.'"

"The drafts for mine," declared the second free. "I need the highest altitude I can find."

Sensible.

Mrs. X.—The flat above us is unoccupied right now. Why don't you come and live there? Mrs. Y.—Oh, my dear, we've been good friends, and I hate to start quarreling with you—Exchange.

An Odd-looking Animal

The skin of an okapi, the first of its kind to be brought to New York, was in the baggage of James F. Chapin, explorer and naturalist, returning on the liner New York from a six-year tour of the Belgian Congo. The okapi, it is explained, looks like a cross between a zebra, a horse and an antelope. It has a face like a tortoise, a tall like a cow, and when in low makes murmuring noises like a bull addle.

WESTERN LIVE STOCK PRODUCERS IN HANDS OF GIGANTIC COMBINE

This is Statement of Premier Scott in Saskatchewan Legislature—His Government Will Shortly Approach Manitoba, Alberta and the Dominion to Form Commissions to Make Inquiry, He Says.

Regina, Sask., June 16.—The government of Saskatchewan will shortly approach the governments of Manitoba, Alberta and the Dominion government with a view to forming commissions to look into the matter of live stock market, according to the statement of Premier Scott in the legislature tonight, following a resolution introduced by Hon. W. C. Stewart. The resolution, which was unanimously passed, called upon the government to take such action.

The premier stated that this had been under consideration by the government for some time, but the war had interfered. He thought, however, that the time was ripe when the matter should be thoroughly investigated. The live stock producers of this country were practically entirely in the hands of one of the most gigantic combines in the world. The commission appointed would have to have very full powers.

In introducing the resolution Mr. Sutherland went very fully into the question of the marketing of live stock. He quoted figures to show that not only are the producers paid less for their stock in the west than in the east, and in the United States, but that the price to the consumer of the west was considerably in excess of that obtained elsewhere. He showed the workings of the combine to crush the efforts of the farmers to set up their own abattoirs, and also how they boycotted the produce of the live stock man if he attempted to make his own shipment east and sell without their agency.

He referred to the excellent results that had attended the efforts of the Saskatchewan government to assist the grain growers in marketing his produce. He pointed out that it was generally conceded that the Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Company had succeeded in raising the price of wheat at least five cents to the farmer. Many claimed that the gain would be more than that. But even on this, with the greatly increasing acreage sown for wheat, he showed that the grain to the farmers of Saskatchewan for this year, estimating that the crop would average twenty bushels to the acre, would be six million dollars. He argued that the condition of the live stock men today was similar to that of the grain growers a few years before the advent of the Co-operative Elevator Company, and that a similar movement was necessary in order that the live stock producer might get the profits that were fairly coming to him. He read some figures to the house showing the great increase in the industry in Saskatchewan and Alberta. He declared that the business would increase even more rapidly in the future if it could be made fairly profitable.

Other members on both sides of the house spoke in favor of the resolution.

Increasing Your Prosperity :: ::

THE surest way to get rich is to increase the multiplier; which means for the merchants of Red Deer—increase your customers rather than add to the lines you are selling, or the stock you are carrying.

Adding to the number of the lines you sell or to the volume of the stock you carry is not the way surest to prosperity. Indeed, this has ruined thousands of men.

The surer way is to multiply customers. No business can prosper or grow that doesn't add many customers each year.

Customers must be added by purposeful effort—by seeking them. Waiting for them to find you is folly. Seek them by the newspaper advertising. This is the only sure way to build up numbers.

To the Merchants of Red Deer

You can multiply your customers through a series of good advertisements in THE NEWS. Ask us about the cost of advertising.

Have You a Bad Sore?

If so, remember these facts—Zam-Buk is by far the most widely used balm in Canada. Why has it become so popular? Because it heals sores, cures skin diseases, and does what is claimed for it. Why not let it heal your sore?

Remember that Zam-Buk is altogether different to the ordinary ointments. Most of these consist of animal fats. Zam-Buk contains no trace of any animal fat, or any mineral matter. It is absolutely heral.

Remember that Zam-Buk is at the same time healing, soothing, and antiseptic. Kills poison instantly, and all harmful germs. It is suitable for recent injuries and diseases, and for chronic sores, ulcers, etc.

Test how different and superior Zam-Buk really is. All druggists and stores at 50c box. Use also Zam-Buk Soap. Relieves sunburn and prevents freckles. Best for baby's bath. 25c tablet.

Winston Churchill's New Book

"A Far Country"

In "THE INSIDE OF THE CUP," one of the most successful novels ever written, Mr. Churchill deals with some of the problems surrounding modern religion. In his new book, "A FAR COUNTRY," he turns to other of our social ills, and with even greater daring, lays bare the truth. The title is taken from the Biblical quotation concerning the prodigal son—"and took his journey into a far country and there he wasted his substance in riotous living." This gives some hint of the tremendous scope, tenacity and human interest of the author's theme. Mr. Churchill has spread a big canvas, and on it he has drawn a true picture of contemporary American manhood and womanhood.

With eight Illustrations. Price $1.50. This will be "The big book of 1915. Get a copy to-day.
